

Job Overview:

Consultant in Occupational Medicine

Workforce Directorate

Occupational Health, Safety and Wellbeing Service, The Education Centre, St Thomas' Hospital

From £105,504 - £139,882 per annum excl. London Zone

Full -Time 10 PA a week (job share and request for part time can be considered)

The Occupational Health, Safety and Well-being Service (OHSWB) at Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust is appointing full time consultants to join our dynamic, enthusiastic and forward thinking team. The OHSWB is currently involved in many exciting initiatives and are looking for an individual with appropriate skills to complement this team and help keep the service in the forefront of clinical and academic excellence.

Main duties:

Applications are invited from suitably qualified occupational physicians to provide clinical services across a wide range of clients comprising NHS and non-NHS institutions.

The post is to provide 1.0 whole time equivalent consultant (10 PA). There is potential to consider job share and part time working options.

This post provides a unique opportunity to either become involved in OH research as the post holder could have 2 dedicated PAs (equivalent to one day) for research during the first 12 months of their employment. Subject to developing a successful research portfolio, an extension to the research PAs beyond the first 12 months will be considered.

Alternatively, the post holder may have 2 dedicated PAs (equivalent to one day) to plan, develop and implement an educational training programme to support visiting professionals in acquiring skills, knowledge and experience in occupational medicine.

There is also opportunity to directly support commercial occupational health provision.

The post holder will contribute to the clinical governance and will act as clinical and educational supervisors to Occupational Medicine trainees.

OHSWB services are provided from three main sites at St Thomas', Royal Brompton and Harefield hospital sites. The present occupational health service is one of the largest and most advanced in England, and the first NHS service to be SEQOHS- accredited. We provide services to the Trust and commercially, to a number of other NHS and commercial businesses.

We are committed to training nurses and doctors; there are presently three specialty registrars, and two nurses training in Occupational Health.

Working for: Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust (GSTT) is one of the largest hospital Trusts in England, having formed the Academic Health Sciences Centre in 2009, following amalgamation with King's College Hospital, the South London and Maudsley NHS Foundation Trust, King's College London, and the Institute of Psychiatry. As one of the largest occupational health services in the NHS, the OHSWB comprises of a health and safety service, manual handling, fit testing, health and wellbeing, staff psychology and occupational health research teams as well as the occupational health (OH) services for Trust and commercial clients.

Details

The post holder will largely be based in the Education Centre, York Road. The rest of activities are expected to be delivered from the Royal Brompton or Harefield hospital sites as well as other customer's location. There may be an option to deliver part of their job plan remotely.

Applicants must be able to work well within a multi-disciplinary team and possess strong leadership skills communicating effectively to promote innovation, effect change, and communicate effectively with managers and employees. Experience of working in a large complex multi-disciplinary organisation would be an advantage.

Applicants must have full GMC registration, a licence to practise and be eligible for inclusion on the GMC's Specialist Register. Those trained in the UK should have evidence of higher specialist training leading to a Certificate of Completion of Training in Occupational Medicine, hold Membership or Fellowship of the Faculty of Occupational Medicine. Non-UK applicants must demonstrate equivalent training.

The postholder will have regular contact with vulnerable adults and/or children (0-18 years) and therefore this post is subject to the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act (Exceptions Order) 1975 and as such it will be necessary for a submission for Disclosure to be made to the Disclosure and Barring Service to check for any previous criminal convictions.

As an organisation, we are committed to developing our services in ways that best suit the needs of our patients. This includes asking certain groups of staff to work more flexibly so that we can offer services to patients in the evenings and at weekends. We regard this flexibility as essential if we are to continue to provide first class patient care in the future. As a result, any offer of employment to a consultant post will be subject to you agreeing to work a new more flexible pattern of working in the future if required and in accordance with the provisions of the new Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust consultant contract.
